How to Have Weakly Children.

1. Wrap them up in an abundance of flannel and other warm clothing.—Make their clothes fit neatly, and draw them tight about their shoulders, chest and waist.

2. Keep them in doors as much as possible. Never allow them to run out and romp in the open air, as this would promote digestion and excite a more healthful circulation of the blood and thereby tend to defeat the object sought.

3. Allow them to eat anything they want except corn bread, bacon and beans, and other similar articles of coarse food. Always keep a supply of sweetmeats and all sorts of nicknacks on hand, and never let them be without something to eat more than a half hour. If they they do not incline to eat so often, encourage them to do so by offering them something else.

4. Never wash them in cold water.

5. Put them to sleep in warm feather beds—no matter how many together—the more the better. Cover them up with warm blankets and quilts, and close all the doors and windows both winter and summer.

6. As they will frequently exhibit signs of illness, give them a dose of vermifuge and encourage them to eat.

7. When your daughters have attained the age of five or six it is time to apply the whalebone, starch, &c., so as to compress the lungs within the smallest possible compass, and an additional skirt or two should be suspended from the waist.

By the strict observance of these and other similar rules which will naturally suggest themselves, your children will speedily become dyspeptic; their teeth will decay and fall out, and you will have the satisfaction of seeing them grow up most beautifully delicate and not more perhaps, than four out of six will die of consumption before they are thirty.

Dr. Humboldt has been trying his inoculating for yellow fever in Cuba, by permission of the Government. A report for the result of the operation made to the Government shows that of two hundred and twenty-eight cases of black vomit, among those inoculated, only seventy-seven died.

We learn from the New York Express that Greeley's Tribune begins to despond, and expresses great doubt of Fremont's election. It says that if defeated before the people, his chance for election is small in the House.

The fact that New York is going for Fillmore no doubt causes this despondency in the Tribune.

A lady said to a gentleman who had accompanied her and her sister to church, "It rains—send for an umbrella!" "Why," said the beau, "you are neither warmer nor salt—rain won't hurt you." "True, but we are ladies," said his companion. Umbrella sent for.

Look at them—Sixty-six Old-Line Lige, of Camlen Point, Mo., have published a card in the St. Louis Republican, viz: their intention to vote for Fillmore and Donelson.

"There a word in our language which misgives all the vowels! Unquestionably."

Who was it?

Who was it that threatened to open his veins and let out his democratic blood? James Buchanan.

Who was it that "consented" to the admission of Texas, in order to drive slavery out of Maryland, Virginia, and Kentucky? James Buchanan.

Who was it that made a speech in 1844 (which may be found in the Congressional Globe) upon the Annexation of Texas, and in it declared that he had only been brought to favor the measure because he believed it would "be the means of limiting not enlarging the dominion of slavery?" James Buchanan.

Who was it that advocated the reduction of wages to the standard of Continental Europe, or "ten cents a day"? James Buchanan.

Who was on the committee which drafted the Lancaster resolutions instructing the members of Congress from Pennsylvania "to prevent the existence of slavery in any of the Territories or new States which may be erected by Congress?" James Buchanan.

Who was it that Gen. Jackson pronounced devoid of moral courage and unworthy of confidence? James Buchanan.

Who made a proposition of "deep corruption" to Gen. Jackson, and attempted to transfer the paternity of that proposition from himself to the patriotic Clay? James Buchanan.

Who was it that told the people of Pennsylvania, in 1844, that "Polk was a better tariff man than Clay?" James Buchanan.

Who was it that "thanked his God that his lot was not cast in a Slave State?" JAMES BUCHANAN.

Who was it that announced his "squatter sovereignty" doctrines in his letter of acceptance, thus: "that the people of a Territory, like those of a State, shall decide for themselves whether slavery shall or shall not exist within their limits." JAMES BUCHANAN.

Who wrote the Sanford letter in 1848, pronouncing the power of Congress over slavery in the Territories, "sovereign and exclusive." JAMES BUCHANAN.

Extract of a Speech lately made by Mr. Brooks, of S. C., upon the Propriety and Policy of Disunion.

Let democrats friendly to the Union digest this, given as a reason for supporting Mr. Buchanan. Commentary is useless.

"NOW, MR. FILLMORE IS PRIVATELY A VERY RESPECTABLE GENTLEMAN. HE MADE A GOOD PRESIDENT AND I BELIEVE SINCERELY THAT IF ELECTED, HE WOULD DESERT HIS OWN PARTY AND MAKE A BETTER PRESIDENT THAN YOU THINK. BUT THAT IS THE VERY THING THAT I DON'T WANT. I AM AFRAID THAT HE WOULD DO SO WELL THAT HE WOULD THROW BACK THE PROSPECT OF DIS-UNION!!!"

Baby Poetry.

Some hypocritical old bachelor may say there is no poetry in the following reported effusion of "a young and happy mother." But don't she sing over her first born, in baby language, true poetry?

Where is the baby? Bless its heart—Where is muzzer's darling boy? Does it hold its little hands apart, The dearest, blessed toy?
And so it does; and will its little chin Grow just as fat as butter?
And will it poke its little fingers in Its tummy little mouth, and mutter Nicely wavy words,
Just like little yaller birds?
And so it will; and so it may,
No matter what its pappy, mummy say;
And does it wink its eyes,
When it's mad, and ups and cries?
And does it squall like chick-a-dee-dee At everything it sees?
Well it does! Why not, I pray?
Aint it muzzer's darlin' every day?
Oh! what's the matter? Oh my! oh my!
What makes my sweetest chicken ky?
Oh nasty, ugly pin, to prick it;
Its darlin' muzzer's darling cricket!
There! There! she's thrown it in
The fire, the kuel, wicked pin!
There! hush my honey; go to sleep,
Rocked in a kadle of e' deep!

Youth writes its hopes upon the sand, and age advances like the sea and washes them all out.

Every young man starting in life, should write one resolution upon his heart, and that should be—"I will excel."

Who was it?

It is the doctrine that the people of a Territory, while in a territorial condition, have the right to frame such domestic institutions as they choose, and in the exercise of this right, to abolish or permit slavery.

What Democrats have said of this doctrine.

IT IS "INCOMPATIBLE WITH THE CONSTITUTION."—Union and American.

A DOCTRINE OF "ALL OTHERS" THE "MOST ODIOS TO THE SOUTH."—Nash. Union and American.

"THE MOST MONSTROUS DOCTRINE EVER ADVANCED BY AN AMERICAN STATESMAN."—John C. Calhoun.

"WORSE THAN WILMOT PROVISIONISM."—John C. Calhoun.

"AS INDEFENSIBLE IN PRINCIPLE AND DANGEROUS IN PRACTICE AS WILMOT PROVISIONISM."—Conventions of Alabama and Virginia in 1848.

"WILL NEVER SUPPORT ANY CANDIDATE FOR THE PRESIDENCY OR VICE PRESIDENCY WHO MAINTAINS IT."—Same.

"Among the fair, but false and fatal theories of the day none attracts so much homage as the 'Squatter Sovereignty' doctrine. There are none so radiant with meretricious charms, none so ready with deceitful promises, and none so sure to cover their victim with shame and reproach. The sovereignty of the people is a noble principle, and should command universal homage. 'SQUATTER SOVEREIGNTY' IS AN IMPERFECT, A COUNTERFEIT COPY—AN UGLY IDOL WROUGHT BY MEN'S HANDS—AND SHOULD BE KICKED OFF THE PEDESTAL WHERE IT SITS IN MOCK MAJESTY AND COURTS THE ADMIRATION OF FOOLS AND DEMAGOGUES."—Richmond Enquirer.

Mr. Buchanan and Squatter Sovereignty.

Mr. Buchanan in his letter of acceptance openly and boldly approves this doctrine. Remember that, people of the South, and read the following:

"But while giving to his letter the acknowledgment of our admiration and respect, we refrain from evoking any recollections which may seem to mar the sincerity of our praise, and for a like reason we forbear all comment upon the interpretation which Mr. Buchanan gives to a disputed point of Democratic doctrine, respecting the power of a Territory to establish or prohibit the institution of slavery. Mr. Buchanan, it will be seen, gives in his address to the principle of Squatter Sovereignty, as it is popularly called, in terms the most definite and express, understanding, as he does, that Congress by its recent legislation upon this subject, has simply declared that the people of a Territory, like those of a State, shall decide for themselves whether slavery shall or shall not exist within their limits."—National Intelligencer.

"I might, by soft words, hold out deceptive hopes, and thereby win votes. But I can never consent to be one thing to the North and another to the South. I should despise myself if I could be guilty of such evasion. * * * In the language of the lamented, immortal Clay—I had rather be right than President."—Millard Fillmore's Albany Speech.

"The influence of slavery is demoralizing—let our National Legislature use its most zealous and strenuous exertions to inhibit the existence of slavery in any of the Territories or States which may hereafter be created by Congress."—JAMES BUCHANAN.

"I came to the other House of Congress, many years since, a friend of the Bankrupt Law."—James Buchanan.

"I believe [Slavery] to be a great political and moral evil. I THANK GOD MY LOT HAS BEEN CAST IN A STATE WHERE IT DOES NOT EXIST! * * * It has been a curse entailed upon us by that nation which now makes it a subject of reproach to our institutions."—JAMES BUCHANAN. [See Gales & Seaton's Register of Debates, page 2, 180, vol. 2, part 2.]

"I get fed a strong repugnance by any act of mine to extend the limits of the Union over a new slaveholding Territory."—Speech of Buchanan in 1844, while the Senate was in secret session on the Texas Annexation Bill, and which may be found in the Congressional Globe.

The Boston (Mass.) Atlas tells us that a few days ago Mr. Maine of Suffolk, made an affecting speech in the Senate, on his new railroad bill for the preservation of life on through trains. He said he spoke "for the silent dead when a profane spectator outside of the bar, observed that he had 'a thundering large constituency.'"
